

Introductory Medical Statistics Course

Thursday 10 to Friday 11 May 2018

National Heart and Lung Institute (Imperial College)
Guy Scadding Building, Dovehouse Street, London SW3 6LY

Booking fees: NHS/academic: £200; corporate: £300

Fee includes handout and refreshments (incl. lunch)

Course description: Designed to introduce those who use statistics in their work or research to statistical concepts including: epidemiological study design; identifying and describing different data types; selection of appropriate statistical tests (two and three group scenarios); calculation of sample size for basic study designs; understanding the principles behind various forms of regression analysis, including survival analysis.

Accreditation sought from the Royal College of Physicians:
(12 CPD points)

Target audience: Doctors, nurses, clinical research fellows, students and trainees

Course webpage:

<http://www.lungsatwork.org.uk/courses/introductory-medical-statistics-two-day-course-4>

Other events (Occupational Health) – 2018

Booking fees:

#1-3 and #5: £175; #4, as a pilot, is £50

1. Lung Function Testing in the Workplace - Introductory Level:
Tuesday 6 March [full; running waiting list]; Tuesday 10 July
2. Lung Function Testing in the Workplace – Intermediate Level:
Tuesday 27 March [nearly full]; Tuesday 12 June
3. Workplace Respiratory Surveillance: A Practical Guide:
Thursday 26 April
4. New: OH Surgery (discussion event; pilot) - Tuesday 19 June
5. Occupational Lung Disease – Keeping Up to Date - Thursday 20 September

Details on our courses: <http://www.lungsatwork.org.uk/courses/all>

For queries, contact Magda Wheatley - m.wheatley@imperial.ac.uk; tel 020 7594 7990